REPEALING BIG GOVERNMENT
BEFORE THE COMING FISCAL COLLAPSE

THOMAS E. WOODS, JR.

SENIOR FELLOW AT THE LUDWIG VON MISES INSTITUTE

The Fiscal Crisis

The United States is facing a fiscal crisis of unprecedented proportions. The national debt is over $30 trillion, and it is growing by over $1 trillion per year. The unfunded liabilities of our entitlement programs, such as Social Security and Medicare, are over $100 trillion. This is a ticking time bomb that threatens to bankrupt our country.

The causes of the fiscal crisis are complex, but they can be boiled down to two main factors: overspending and under-taxation. The government has been spending more money than it takes in for decades. This has led to a massive accumulation of debt.

At the same time, the government has been cutting taxes for the wealthy and for corporations. This has reduced the amount of revenue that the government has available to pay for its programs.

The consequences of the fiscal crisis are dire. If we do not take action to address the fiscal crisis, we will face a future of higher taxes, lower benefits, and a declining standard of living.

The Solution

The solution to the fiscal crisis is to repeal big government. Big government is the cause of the fiscal crisis, and it is the only thing that can solve it.

Repealing big government means reducing the size and scope of the federal government. It means cutting taxes, reducing spending, and eliminating unnecessary programs.

Repealing big government will not be easy, but it is essential. If we want to preserve our freedom and prosperity, we must repeal big government before it is too late.

Repealing Big Government Before the Coming Fiscal Collapse is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the challenges facing our country and who wants to do something about them. This book provides a clear and concise plan for repealing big government and restoring our fiscal health.
