In his latest book, 'What People Will Be Killed For in the 21st Century,' award-winning author and journalist David Grann takes readers on a chilling journey into the depths of human depravity. Grann explores the shocking reasons why people have killed and will continue to kill in our modern world, from honor killings to drug cartels, from genocide to terrorism.

Drawing on extensive research and interviews with perpetrators, victims, and experts, Grann paints a vivid and disturbing portrait of the dark side of human nature. He reveals the twisted motivations that drive individuals and groups to commit acts of violence, and the devastating consequences that these acts have on both the victims and the perpetrators themselves.

Grann's book is a powerful and thought-provoking exploration of one of the most enduring and disturbing aspects of human behavior. It is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the roots of violence and the ways in which it can be prevented.

Here are some of the key themes that Grann explores in 'What People Will Be Killed For in the 21st Century':

- Honor killings: The murder of a family member, usually a woman, who is perceived to have brought shame or dishonor upon the family.
- Drug cartels: The violent criminal organizations that control the production and distribution of illegal drugs.
- Genocide: The systematic killing of a particular group of people, such as the Holocaust.
- Terrorism: The use of violence or the threat of violence to achieve political or ideological goals.

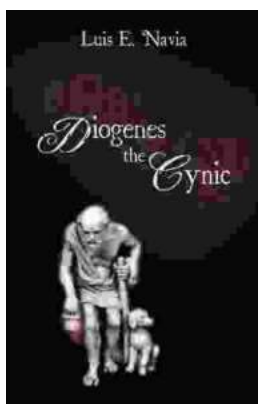

Grann's book is a chilling reminder of the darkness that can reside within the human heart. It is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the roots of violence and the ways in which it can be prevented.
